

Greetings

I am immensely pleased that we all met again in healthy look. First of all, I would like to thank you members who participated in 2017 academic conference held in success in Jeju island of Korea last year. Thanks to the generous supports of you members, we were able to hold the academic conference in success. I express my thanks to you again.

We expect that just like last year, the 2018 academic conference held in Kyushu Sangyo University of Japan at this time will be a great opportunity to further promote academic exchanges and deepen the fellowship among members. As an international academic conference held once a year and composed of members from three countries, this conference is witnessing on-going developments no less than those of any other academic conferences.

I believe that this academic conference also will be a venue where members from three countries may give presentation on the contents prepared and hold serious discussions to become the position of sports science which is developing day by day. I give thanks to Kyushu Sangyo University that has provided the place for the academic conference, and I also express thanks to you members along with chair A. Saito of Japan who has sought for each and every assurance for preparation.

I am positive that we the three countries the main axis of East Asia will develop in force later on as well, and also the sports science would play no less significant role for human race than any other academic field through in-depth academic approach of our academic conference. That's our role and mission. Lastly, I would like to wish endless development of EASESS and wellness of members.

8th August, 2018

Nam, Joong-Woong

President of EASESS

Professor at Korea National University of Transportation, Korea